Vanderbilt House Furniture to Be Sold at Auction

Mr. William K. Vanderbilt's Widow Disposing of Some of Mansion's Contents.

Vanderbilt furniture is to be sold unr the hammer. Seldom if ever before has this announcement been made as affecting the belongings of a member of that distinguished New York family. A brief statement sent out yesterday by Augustus W. Clarke that a collection of furniture from "a mansion at 660 Fifth avenue" will be sold at the Clarke Galleries, 42 to 44 East Fifty-eighth street, hid the interesting fact that Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt is about to sell at auction some of the rich furnishings of the stately house at the northwest corner of Fifty-second street that belonged to her husband until his death in Paris July 22, 1920. The house passed by will to his sons, William K. and Harold S. Vanderbilt, provision being made for its upkeep so long as his widow decided to occupy it. This she did not elect to do except for a brief time. She leased an apartment in Park avenue and purchased a house in Sutton place, overlooking the East River near the Queensboro Bridge for her future residence. Subsequently the Fifth avenue mansion was sold to the Empire Trust Company for a banking house.

While Mrs. Vanderbilt has made no statement of her reasons for selling the furnishings it is believed many of them are not suitable for use in a small house. The property involved in the forthcoming sale has been taken from a suite on the second floor of the Fifty-second street side of the house, which is a perfect reproduction of a wing of a famous French chateau. A few of the more notable pleces include a four poster bed in Adam style, with elaborate brocaded spread; a wing bookcase, cylinder desk, lady's work table, a writing desk, several commodes, two magnificent screens with hand painted panels, costly mirrors having Wedswood medallions inserted; fine Ormolu candelabra with Sevres figures, a little boudoir suite consisting of sofa and chairs with fine old chintz coverings, bronze appliques and other wall decorations.

Included in the sale also will be an amateur's collection of Chinese porce-Augustus W. Clarke that a collection of midsummer was given a tremendous push when the Aquitania sailed yesterday and will be accelerated further today when the Adriatic goes out with a notable passenger list. The Aquitania was crowded with persons noted in a dozen very different walks of life, with diplomacy, society and the theatrical world in the foreground.

Countess Nile Bonde's cabin was filled with flowers grouped about an limmense basket of fruit. She is the wife of Major Count Nils Bonde, Millitary Attache of the Swedish Legation and is going back to her homeiand to pass the summer with her family.

A similar floral bon voyage marked the departure of Mr. Richard Steers Aldrich and his bride of Providence, who were married in that city last Saturday.

Col. and Mrs. Edward M. House went way con board the Aquitania observing their usual rectioence about their plans.

In another group were Mrs. William way cn board the Aquitania observing their usual rectioence about their plans.

In another group were Mrs. William wat Sherman, who is going to England for a return visit to her son-in-law and daughter, Lord and Lady Camoys, at at Stonor Park, Henley on Thames, in Oxfordshire.

In the large theatrical group on the Aquitania are Miss Maxine Elliott. George C. Tyler, the producer: Arnold the aviator, and Mrs. White, who is well known to playgoers as Ethel Levey.

The Vice-President and Mrs. Coolidge were chief guests last night at a reception and dance given by the Speaker of the House and Mrs. Gillett at the Willard. Mrs. Gillett's daughters, the Misses Frances and Louisa Hoar, assisted their mother. Miss Frances Hoar has just returned from Boston, where she went after meeting her flance, Mr. Reginald S. Foster, on his arrival from Europe. O. P. CURTIS OF LENOX william Brewster of New York city, and a rare group of original manuscripts and letters of Edgar Allan Poe. The latter material is being sold for the account of a descendent of Henry B. Hirst, to whom many of the letters are addressed. Mrs. W. Albert Pease, Jr., and Miss Patty Carroll Pease will go to their country place on Long Island this week. The Poe relics form the most attractive part of the collection. Among them are the autograph manuscript of "Annabel Lee," six stanzas written on two quarto pages, and pasted in Poe's customary fashion to form one long sheet. The original manuscript of his essay, "About the Critics and Criticism," similarly pasted to form a continuous sheet
